Wild Center Membership is a great value with only a few basic guidelines.

- A Membership belongs to a single household – there is no shared-ownership between two or more households, as the membership database accommodates only one household address.
- Up to two members are listed on a member card, both in the same household.
- At least one member should be present, and is included in the total adults admitted free each visit.

While those and other restrictions are common with museum memberships, The Wild Center is more flexible than most in terms of who can accompany you:

- On a family visit, related children through age 17 are admitted free.
- The other adults admitted as your guest(s) do not need to live in your household or be related to you.
